Featuring:

Gerald Curtis, Burgess Professor Emeritus of Political Science, Columbia University; Chairman, Maureen and Mike Mansfield Foundation; Distinguished Research Fellow, Tokyo Foundation for Policy Research; Member of the Board of Directors, Japan Society; Core Faculty, Center on Japanese Economy and Business, Columbia Business School

Heizo Takenaka, Professor Emeritus, Keio University; Professor, Toyo University; Member of the Policy Council under the Abe administration; former Minister of State for Internal Affairs and Communication and for Economic and Fiscal Policy in the Koizumi administration

On September 16, 2020, CJEB was a co-sponsor for a live webinar featuring Gerald Curtis and Heizo Takenaka, with opening remarks from Merit Janow, dean at Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs, and Joshua Walker, president & CEO of Japan Society. In this webinar, the speakers offered their insights into the current landscape of Japanese politics, the prospects for domestic and foreign policy under the new administration, and implications for U.S.-Japan relations. They discussed what Prime Minister Suga needs to do to win a regular three year term as party leader 12 months from now and continue as the nation's prime minister, when he is likely to call for a lower house election, specific policies that are likely to be at the top of his agenda, and how Japan's politics will evolve in the post-Abe era. This event was co-sponsored by Japan Society; the School of International and Public Affairs, Columbia University; and the APEC Study Center, Columbia University.
