My Name (printed): _____

Description of Contribution: Speaking at a public event organized by the Center on Japanese Economy and Business, Columbia Business School in May 2023

Columbia University is delighted that you have accepted our invitation to contribute to our educational programs, and we hope to work with you to make your contribution widely available and helpful to a broad audience. We plan to record your contribution and allow public access to it in furtherance of the academic objectives of the university.

Permission. You hereby grant a non-exclusive and royalty-free permission as follows. This permission is not a transfer of any copyright that you may hold. You give permission to The Trustees of Columbia University in the City of New York (“Columbia”) to record your appearance and performance, including your name, and physical likeness. You further permit Columbia: (a) To maintain in perpetuity copies of such recording in the collections of Columbia; to make preservation copies of the recording; and to allow access and other uses of the recording consistent with Columbia’s standard practices. (b) To use such recording in whole or in part, for any academic, research, or other purposes of Columbia. Columbia may reproduce, exhibit, distribute, broadcast, digitize, edit, or otherwise use the recording, by any method and in any media, whether now existing or later created.

Rights and Attribution for Included Sources (if any). You affirm, to the best of your knowledge, that your contribution is your original work and that you have all necessary rights to grant this permission to Columbia. Columbia is committed to responsible attribution of sources and respect for copyright law. If you have included any content from any other source, please include within your presentation an appropriate citation to sources, or inform Columbia of any significant uses of content not cited. Columbia reserves the right to add citations to the project, to evaluate whether the use of content is lawful or otherwise appropriate, and to edit the project accordingly.
